Five Italian Raids Carried Out On Port Of Patras; 200 Believed Dead

ATHENS, Oct. 31—Italian machine-gunning of civilians in various parts of Greece and bitter resistance by crack Greek detachments to the Italian invasion from Albania were reported today in the second official communique of the Greco-Italian war.

The brief statement conceding an initial withdrawal by Greek troops on the frontier said:

"On several sections of the advanced lines on the Epirus front, Greek forces, after first falling back slightly in conformity with plans previously drawn up, maintained their positions throughout the day.

"Their fire stopped the movements of various enemy columns. On the rest of the front the day was quiet.

"Irregular bands operating with enemy aviation indiscriminately bombed the town of Patras and machine-gunned inhabitants.

"A few houses were destroyed at Navpatkos (Lepanto) and Rio. Both are open towns. No military objectives have yet been bombed.

"A school at Navpatkos was destroyed.

"One of our airplanes which engaged enemy fighters in Albanian territory has not returned to its base."

Five Raids Carried Out

Five new Italian air raids were carried out against the port of Patras yesterday. Many buildings were reported set afire while the streets were machine-gunned. Official Greek estimates said that 200 persons were killed and 300 injured, while many other victims still are feared beneath the debris.

Three Greek planes flying low over the Albanian frontier region attacked advancing Italian troops with machine-guns, inflicting considerable casualties. Fifty Italian war prisoners arrived at Salonika.

Athens political quarters state that Greece now has 400,000 men on the northern front. These troops have succeeded in stemming the Italian advance on Janina and Metsovon, designed for simultaneous occupation of Trilaka, Larissa and Volos in central Greece.

Another Italian army is attempting to push through Florida toward Salonika. Some Italian forces were reported to have penetrated 90 kilometers (55 miles) toward Janina before being stopped.

Meanwhile, military quarters said that the main Greek lines are holding firm against repeated heavy Italian attacks.

The Greek command, official quarters said, has ordered that these defense positions be maintained at "all costs" in the face of any attack, but has instructed commanders in the field to make no attempt to follow up local successes.

NEED FOR DISCIPLINE IN SCHOOLS IS DISCUSSED

"Unless discipline in our public schools is more rigidly enforced, drastic results will occur within another generation," Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, told Rotarians at their meeting Thursday noon in the American Hotel Hurricane.

Speaking on the subject of "Americanism in Our Schools," Superintendent Fischer commended the government's Selective Service program as one which would not only reduce the unemployment problem, but also instill discipline into the American youth.

"Democracy demands discipline," he said, "and if it is not self-imposed in the schools, then it should be super-imposed."

Tom Wilson was in charge of the program.

NAZIS REPULSE ATTACK BY BOAT

British Assault On Coast Of Flanders Broken Up; Reich Raided

BERLIN, Oct. 31—British speedboats, advancing under cover of heavy mists, were thrown back by German artillery in an attempt to reach the Flanders Coast, the German high command reported today in a communique which told of new Nazi raids on England.

One of the British vessels probably was destroyed in the terrible barrage set up by Nazi naval guns, the statement said.

Ceaselessly hammering at England's vital war industries and communication lines, German bombers heavily damaged an aircraft factory and troop camps in the midlands and western England, it was said.

New night retaliatory attacks on London, the communique stated, started fresh fires and explosions.

NEW GUARD MAY BE ORGANIZED TO SERVE OHIO

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31—Plans for the organization of an Ohio State Guard of 3,250 men and officers by January 1, to replace units of the National Guard now in training at Camp Shelby, Miss., were announced today by Adj. Gen. Gilson D. Light.

The units, made up mostly of men over conscription age, would be used for "home defense" needs during the period that the National Guard is away, Light explained.

Federal law authorizes such an organization, Light added, and supplies and equipment are to be furnished by the war department. Enlisted men will serve without pay, and enlistment will be for three-year periods, to train one and one-half hours per week.

Present plans, Light said, call for enlistments of men between ages of 18 and 45. However, membership in the Ohio State Guard will not mean that a man between 21 and 35 is exempted from provisions of the draft law.

Light said that at present he had requests from 500 men throughout the state for commissions in the proposed Guard.

The adjutant general's legal counsel now is checking Ohio statutes to determine whether additional legislation may be needed to authorize the Guard, but plans for organization will proceed, Light declared.

Present state-owned armories in various cities will be used as training centers, the general explained.

Dual Program To Provide Additional Assistance For Great Britain

DEFENSE BOARD ACTIVE

Knudsen Meets Leaders Of Motor Industry To Talk Plant Transformation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—A dual program to provide 24,000 additional airplanes for the United States and Great Britain is being directed by defense leaders, it was learned today.

As President Roosevelt disclosed that British officials seek 12,000 more airplanes in this country, it was revealed that the army wants a similar number of bombing planes, in addition to those it already has on order.

The 12,000 bombers sought by the army are estimated to cost approximately $2,000,000,000. Congress may be requested to furnish an appropriation for this purpose soon after election day.

Experts of the army-navy priorities board are determining how to meet the British request for 12,000 more planes, while the National Defense Commission is studying means of further increasing American aviation producing capacity to turn out 12,000 more bombers for the United States military forces.

While commission experts emphasized that any new plan for stepping up American air might is still subject to alteration, it was learned authoritatively that consideration is being given to construction of at least 8,000 two-engine bombing planes and 4,000 four-engine craft.

Motor Plants Used

First indication that the administration desired to augment the current 25,000-plane objective came last week when Defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen met with representatives of the automobile industry on plans to use motor plants for manufacture of airplane parts.

Knudsen canvassed the facilities of the automobile firms to determine if these companies could turn out, quickly, airplane wings, tail surfaces, engine mounts and other structural parts for 12,000 bombers.

Engines for the new bombers presumably would be manufactured by private companies, but assembly of the planes may be (Continued on Page Eight)

HITLER TO MOVE ON U. S., CLAIMS MAJOR GENERAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Predicting that Hitler will move against the United States four months after the conquest of Britain, Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan today urged all possible aid to England.

Calling Hitler one of the great conquerors of history, the World War commander of the 27th Division, depicted a huge fleet attacking the United States if Britain loses.

"If Hitler who has already conquered the peoples of Europe—if Hitler conquers Britain—he will have the greatest fleet in history. If Britain is vanquished Hitler will move within four months to our Atlantic seaboard," General O'Ryan stated.

He said that a huge floating armada, containing batteries of sea-going artillery and anti-aircraft guns would begin an assault on America.

The general asserted that Britain will have no choice but to surrender her fleet in the event of a German victory, because, he said, the Nazis would threaten to level the towns and cities of beaten England in the face of moves to scuttle the fleet.

HURJA PREDICTS WILLKIE TO WIN OVER ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Emil Hurja, one of America's foremost political analysts, predicted that Wendell L. Willkie will defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1940 presidential election by an estimated plurality of 353 electoral votes to 178.

Hurja gave Willkie 29 states, Roosevelt 19.

The popular vote, in his opinion, will be "pretty evenly divided."

(Hurja's genius for analyzing political trends have won him fame. He "called the turn" in 1936 when, as statistician for former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, he predicted Roosevelt would win all but two states. His deductions were largely responsible for Farley's amazingly accurate predictions on various elections.)

Today's prediction by Hurja is based on the result of polls taken by the magazine he publishes—"The Pathfinder"—which has a rural circulation in excess of 1,000,000 copies a week.

Draft May Take Only Three Men In Initial List

Ohio's Quota To Be 996, War Department States; Method Of Procedure Outlined;

Rinehart To Be First From Pickaway

MASTER LISTS BEING PREPARED

Questionnaires To Be Distributed To Registrants During Next Week, Say Advices From Dykstra's Office

That Pickaway County may be called on to furnish only three men for the first draft call was indicated Thursday when information concerning the call was issued by U. S. army officials and state conscription headquarters.

Here is what happens to 996 Ohioans between the ages of 21 and 35 who will be inducted into military service for a year's training between November 19 and November 27:

Each of the state's 350 local draft boards will call in a number of men in the order in which their registration numbers were drawn in the national lottery.

Under present plans, six boards in Cuyahoga, Lucas, Montgomery and Hamilton must provide four men each. In the remainder, boards must furnish three men each for the first call.

Thus, in Ohio, boards are expected to call in all men holding the numbers 158; 192; 4779; 4880; 4928 and 105. Because of deferments, a board may have to call in others in order to obtain the first three.

As soon as each board has the required three or four available for service immediately, those will be given physical examinations by medical men assigned to each board. If they pass, they will be sent to "induction" centers.

Centers Established

At the induction centers, Ft. Hayes, Columbus, Ft. Thomas, Ky., and the National Guard Armory at Huntington, W. Va., those conscripted will be given their second and final physical examination.

Eye, ear, nose, throat, heart and other specialists at induction centers will determine whether the drafted men are physically fit to stand the rigors of camp life. If they are passed, they are "in the army."

Those turned down will be returned to their local boards, which then must provide replacements as soon as possible.

Accepted conscriptees will be sent at government expense to a "reception center," in this case at Ft. Thomas, Ky. There they will receive uniforms and other individual equipment and be vaccinated.

After that they will be offered government insurance, if they desire it, and will be classified to determine into which branch of the service they will fit best.

Shelby Favored

When that is all over, most of the Ohioans will be sent to join the 37th division, now in training at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Lloyd Emerson Rinehart of Harrison Township, a graduate of the Ashville High School in the class of 1935, who holds No. 158—the first called in the draft—is ready to do his duty for Uncle Sam.

Rinehart, an employee of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company's Groveport plant, lives with his parents, is unmarried and is physically perfect.

"I expect to pass all requirements," he said, "and go with the first bunch. After all, if a year's training is necessary you might as well go right away and get it over with."

He said that he disliked giving up his work, "but," he continued, "our employers have told us that we will be given a leave of absence long enough to do our year's training."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Attorney General Jackson today announced that he had ordered the deportation of Raissa Berkman Browder, wife of Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president.

$10,000 BLAZE HITS OHIO CITY

Waco Plane Factory In Troy Damaged; Output To Be Halted

TROY, Oct. 31—Fire today caused $10,000 damage to the Waco Aircraft company plant at Troy and interrupted work on training ships the plant was turning out for the U. S. army.

Combustion among some oil rags was blamed for the blaze, which started in a paint room. Officials said many plane parts were destroyed but that four completed ships were wheeled out of the plant to safety.

Delbert M. Elliott, an inspector at the plant, was overcome by smoke and fumes. At a hospital he was reported as not serious, however.

Firemen and workers on the night shift battled the blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. The plant has been turning out 21 training ships per week.

Officials said the fire "was definitely not sabotage."

NEFFNER URGES STATE CITIZENS TO VOTE EARLY

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31—Secretary of State George Neffner today urged all voters to vote as early as possible on election day.

Neffner suggested that "business and professional men and women, housewives and others who find it possible should vote before noon." This would speed up the voting and eliminate long lines of voters waiting to vote just before the polls close, he added.

The Secretary of State reminded the electors that the booths would be open next Tuesday from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

HALLOWEEN PRANK BRINGS DEATH TO ELYRIA BOY, 17

ELYRIA, Oct. 31—A pre-Halloween prank today resulted in the death of Theodore F. Beidler, 17.

With four other friends, young Beidler had been taking turns lying down in the road last night and frightening motorists. As drivers stopped their automobiles, the boys got up and ran away.

While Beidler was taking his turn, a car approached but failed to stop and killed him instantly.

STATE'S WHEAT MEN GET LOANS OF 3 MILLIONS

10,520 Growers Included In AAA Program; 3,910,857 Bushels Covered

KRUSE CITES FIGURES

Success Being Attributed To More Clear Understanding Of Federal Program

Loans amounting to $2,899,421.69 had been made on October 9, to 10,520 Ohio wheat producers under the AAA wheat loan program, Elmer F. Kruse, Ohio AAA Chairman, announced Thursday. Wheat of the 1940 crop placed under loan totaled 3,910,857 bushels.

Under the wheat loan program, farmers who seeded within their wheat acreage allotments were offered an average of 73 cents a bushel for storing their wheat in approved country elevators and farm storage. If the wheat market price rises sufficiently above the loan rate to show a profit, borrowers may repay the loan plus interest and carrying charges, sell the wheat, and retain the difference, the chairman explained.

He declared that in 1939 about 5,500 wheat growers in the state realized a profit of approximately a half million dollars over and above the amount borrowed from the Commodity Credit Corporation, the lending agency.

This year, he continued, success of the loan program can be attributed to the gains made in 1939 plus a clearer understanding of the Ever-Normal Granary by participating farmers. Present indications point to an increase amounting to approximately 6,000 loans over and above the record established in 1939, the chairman said. Loans on 1940 wheat will be available until December 31, the deadline date.

Dr. Louis Wolfley's Life Is Discussed In Article

The Ohio Archeological and Historical Quarterly for the months of July-September contains a highly interesting article that covers a phase of the life of Dr. Louis A. Wolfley, who served more than 100 years ago in the United States Navy as a surgeon, and who later met a tragic death in Africa.

Dr. Wolfley was a forerunner of Mrs. Eleanor Wolfley Bisell and Mrs. Helen Gunning, East Main Street.

The article is written by Philip D. Jordan, who discusses the subject: "An Ohio Surgeon in Paris, 1835-1836".

The article says that "in December, 1835, a twenty-eight-year-old American naval surgeon took rooms on a narrow Parisian street near off a cliff, going to his death 80 feet below."

The Historical Quarterly's article closes with the statement: "He was buried with full honors in the fort of Porto Praya. Many friends of his in the navy joined in regretting the death of this 'excellent and worthy surgeon.'"

Came to City in 1829

Dr. Wolfley was a native, the article said, of Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania, born February 19, 1807. He had removed to Circleville in 1829 with a brother-in-law. In Circleville he helped the brother-in-law, Dr. William N. Luckey, mix drugs and roll pills. He gained additional schooling in Cincinnati and in June, 1830, was graduated, entering in the practice of medicine in Lancaster, then a town of 1,500 persons.

Mr. Jordan's article discusses his life in Lancaster during which he married Eleanor Ann Irvin, daughter of Judge William Irvin, who was a member of congress.

Mr. Wolfley's diary, kept meticulously, is quoted often in the Historical Quarterly's account of his life, many of the quotations discussing his desire to leave his trade and become a citizen of the world. Longing for life in Paris is stressed in the diary's notes.

He received an appointment in 1832 aboard the sloop St. Louis as an assistant naval surgeon. Later he was transferred to the Mediterranean squadron aboard the U.S.S. Delaware as one of four medical officers.

But Mr. Wolfley tired of life at sea and decided on graduate study in Paris.

His work in Paris in which he studied under the most noted surgeons of the day is described, the article saying: "The continental system of medical training undoubtedly proved more valuable and advantageous to Wolfley, an earnest student, than the more formal prescribed courses of the Ohio Medical College. He paid one surgeon 27 francs for the privilege of watching him operate, while a private course in dissecting cost him 30 francs."

Returned to America

Completing his work in Paris, Mr. Wolfley sailed for America from Liverpool after a short sojourn in England. After his return home he found much work to do in which his Parisian learning assisted him greatly. He did a tour of duty at the Naval Asylum in Philadelphia in 1839, and the following year returned to the sea on the U.S.S. Dale of the Pacific squadron. In March, 1843, he was ranking surgeon on the U.S.S. Decatur and sailed to join the African squadron.

But Mr. Wolfley's health failed. The Decatur put into Porto Praya, Africa, and Mr. Wolfley was left in the care of the United States agent from the Cape Verde Islands. Physically and mentally ill by this time, he was kept under guard, but on the morning of July 21, 1844, he evaded his guards and hurled himself

FAMOUS CENTER COURT AT WIMBLEDON BLASTED

LONDON, Oct. 31—The center court at Wimbledon, where in times of peace men and women of all nations gathered for the finals of the Davis Cup tennis matches, was bombed in a recent aerial attack, it was disclosed today.

Among other famed London landmarks damaged in recent raids, it was revealed, was Leicester Square, the Dutch church of the Austin Friars, St. Boniface Church and Stationers Hall.

Leicester Square, which is connected with Piccadilly Circus by Coventry Street, was known at one time as "the pouting place of princes" because two Princes of Wales went there to live after family quarrels. Hogarth, the artist, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Sir Isaac Newton and John Hunter all lived on the square during their lifetimes.

Mayor Cady; Revolver
Found By Officer

He was bound over to the grand jury on a $1,000 bond and committed to County Jail in default of payment.

Clark's arrest came Tuesday after a tussle with Patrolman Radcliff, Clark, who was carrying a .22 calibre stolen revolver, attempted to pull the gun on the patrolman as Radcliff made the arrest.

Police said that following the hearing Wednesday night, Clark threatened to "get" Radcliff when he got out.

ILLINOIS ENTRY WINS NATIONAL HUSKING EVENT

Irving Bauman Of Eureka Shucks 46.71 Bushels To Set New Mark

OHIOANS DOWN IN LIST

Iowa Entrant On Heels Of Champ; 1935 Record Is Shattered

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Oct. 31—A new national cornhusking record was marked up in the books today to the credit of Irving Bauman, Eureka, Ill., farmer, who captured the seventeenth annual National championship.

The 27-year-old farmer shucked 46.71 bushels in the 80-minute contest to edge Mario Link, 25-year-old Iowa ace. Bauman received a gold cup and $100 in cash as the first award.

It was the third time the Illinois farmer had been in the national shucking contest. He was Illinois title holder in 1935 and again in 1938 and both years was runner-up for the national title. In the recent state contest, however, he placed second to Eucus Vaughn, of Piatt County, who finished fifth in yesterday's event with 41.62 bushels.

The former record of 41.25 bushels was held by Elmer Carlson, of Audubon, Iowa, who set the mark in 1935.

Bauman and Link finished almost even. The Illinois farmer's load weighed 3,350 pounds and Link's 3,339 pounds. Bauman had total deductions of 89.1 pounds for husks and gleanings and the Iowa, 93.9 pounds. Their net huskings were: Bauman, 3269.9 pounds; Link 3245.1 pounds.

Another Iowan, Irvy Carlson, of Madison, finished third with 44.97 bushels, and Lawrence House, of Goodland, Kas., fourth with 42.03 bushels.

George Sunday, of Paulding County and Ohio's No. 2 entrant, finished twelfth.

Chester Collins, Hardin County tenant farmer who captured the Ohio title last week, finished far down the list with 36.93 bushels.

Ashville Is Celebrating Halloween With Parade

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

The Parent-Teacher Association's Halloween party at the school auditorium Wednesday night was a great success from every angle, from the eats through the dance.

The decorations were extra fine and had cost someone a lot of time and expense.

Tonight is more doings with the big masked and costume parade headed by the school band. Prizes are to be awarded to the best of most everything, closing with a street dance at Gay and Long Streets.

So it's fun and plenty of it all through the evening. And an invitation is out to all of you to join in for and with the big fun.

Private William E. Bowers, Jr., writes from Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., that everything is going along fine.

Arising at 5:30 a. m., his day is begun marching in the band down the Regiment Street, lustily playing a march. Likewise in the evening in front of Regimental Headquarters they play "Star Spangled Banner." Colonel Jackson of Circleville is at the head of his regiment.

He writes that the days are very warm, with fog and cool weather at night. The food has been excellent having had last Sunday a complete chicken dinner.

Slowly they are getting organized, living in tents as yet, until permanent quarters are erected. Surprisingly, he states that there is very little talk of war among the soldiers.

The draft strikes home. Lloyd Rinehart, a graduate of Ashville High School, class of 1935, whose draft number of course is 158, was

OHIO SALES TAX FUND 12 PERCENT AHEAD OF 1939

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31—Sales tax collections up to October 19 were 12 percent ahead of those of last year, State Treasurer Don H. Ebricht said today in reporting receipts of $1,065,000 for the week ending on that date.

In 1939 at that time collections totaled $35,526,000. With the October 19 receipts, the tax has yielded $39,806,000 to the state treasury, Ebricht said.

At the same time, Ebricht revealed that more than one-sixth of the total collected to date has been contributed by automobile dealers. Their share this year has amounted to $6,640,000 as against $4,976,000 for the same period of 1939.

Pickaway County Numbers As Drawn

Editor's Note: Names of 100 additional draftees in Circleville and Pickaway County appear in Thursday's Herald. This list is in addition to the 125 names that appeared in Tuesday's and Wednesday's publications. The Herald each day will publish a number of names and numbers to inform registrants of the order in which they will receive draft questionnaires. The County Selective Service Board reiterates its request that all registrants refrain from asking for information concerning numbers. Each will receive his Draft Order number as soon as it is possible for the Board to supply it.

PRESIDENT PUTS OKED ON MORE AID FOR BRITAIN

12,000 Additional Planes
To Be Sent If Board
Nods Approval

BOSTON CHEERS F. D. R.

United States To Be Great
Air Power, Executive
Tells Crowd

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—President Roosevelt, having pledged that the United States would become "the strongest air power in the world" and having disclosed plans to give Great Britain "sympathetic consideration" for an order of 12,000 additional fighting planes, returned to Washington today from a fast-moving campaign swing through Massachusetts and Connecticut.

In another fighting speech, delivered last night to a packed Boston garden, the President struck repeatedly at his third term opposition and reached the conclusion that "all the sweet words of the Republican leaders in Philadelphia last June were not worth the paper they were written on."

The President came back to the White House, among his other problems, to confer with members of the National Defense Council priorities board about the further contemplated aid to embattled Britain.

He got cheers from his Boston audience when he said he had recommended to William S. Knudsen, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Leon Henderson—who comprise the priorities board—that they let 12,000 more planes go overseas as a matter of "hard-headed self-interest."

"When these additional orders are approved—and I hope they will be—they will bring Great Britain's present orders for military planes from the United States to more than 26,000," the President reported.

were thumbingly licked for congressional nominations.

Four years ago, Ward came within an ace of winning the senatorial nomination. When he tried again this year, Democratic leaders were worried. But their fears were groundless. He ran a poor third against two little known opponents.

Derry tried for the House on the Republican ticket, but did no better than Ward. He ran a poor third.

NOTE—Coughlin is in strong disfavor among the Catholic clergy in this diocese. Archbishop Mooney is credited with keeping a firm restraining hand on him.

DOUBTFUL INDIANA
INDIANAPOLIS—In one particular the Democratic campaign in Indiana differs from that of any other state in the Middle West. Here the Democrats have a real go-getting state organization. It is on its toes. And it is fighting militantly for the national and state ticket against concededly tough odds.

Credit for this belongs largely to Chairman Fred Bays, one of the most colorful figures in American politics. Handsome, dapper and dynamic, Bays is a former showman and circus owner, who applies to the political arena all the hoopla and zing necessary to his former profession.

Bays' basic belief is that the way to win votes is to entertain folks. He tours the hustings with a troupe of circus and vaudeville performers whom he carefully rehearses daily. He also writes the script for the half-hour barn dance which he stages and broadcasts with a cast of sixty-five. Tickets, given away free, are at a premium.

Bays' shows go off like clockwork. Several hours before a performance, the ornately painted truck of the State Committee pulls up, a crew of decorators with bunting, pictures and sound equipment takes charge of the hall, and the actors go through a rehearsal. On the dot of schedule the show opens. Bays make a brief political talk and the performance begins, closing with a boy soprano singing "God Bless America." This wows them.

Bays' drive and talents so impressed Henry Wallace, when he campaigned in Indiana, that he tried to get the ex-circus man to manage his own campaign. In fact, Bays has attracted the attention of Roosevelt and other leading Democrats who are not averse to naming him as successor to National Chairman Ed Flynn if and when Ed steps out after the election.

MERRY-GO-ROUND
WASHINGTON—It will surprise no one if some of the Latin-American military men now touring the U. S. as guests of the Army will participate in the occupation of Martinique under joint Pan-American auspices. Roosevelt is anxious to make the taking over of French possessions a truly good-neighbor enterprise. . . . It looks as if Democratic boss Hague of Jersey City were going

Republican Leadership for STATE and NATION

The issue is clear in the coming state election:—Whether to retain the decent, solvent, business-like administration instituted by Governor Bricker—or to return to the welter of extravagance, inefficiency and deficits which characterized the regime of his present opponent and predecessor in office. John W. Bricker has kept his promises. He cleaned house and rooted out waste in state management. He kept Ohio within its income and asked for no new taxes, no increase in old taxes. He paid off millions of the inherited debt and still showed a surplus in the State treasury instead of a deficit. He reduced expenses, yet provided more dollars for every essential service—relief, schools, pensions, highways, etc.—than did his predecessor. John W. Bricker has again made public office a public trust. There have been NO SCANDALS during his administration. Vote for Governor Bricker and retain Ohio's solvency and self-respect.

America must be strong enough to meet any crisis which threatens. Ohio is a pivotal state. It must keep itself strong by retaining the clean administration of Governor Bricker and electing Republican legislators and officials who will support him. It must help make the nation strong by electing Harold H. Burton to the United States Senate, and Republican Congressmen to the United States House of Representatives. Protect your ballot. Vote both the Republican National Ticket and the Republican State Ticket next Tuesday.

GREECE HOLDS THE LINE

THERE is a thrill for millions, wherever the spirit of freedom survives, in the news that Greece, attacked by the dictators, or "tyrants" as the ancient Greeks would call them, is fighting back. It is a poor little country about the size of New York or North Carolina, with 7,000,000 people. It is mainly agricultural, and so hilly that only one-fifth of its area is tillable. Yet it dares to defend itself against Mussolini, with his great army and air fleet, and the resources of powerful Germany in the background if the Duce should need them.

Greece cannot hold out long, of course, without allies. Britain has come quickly to help with her troops, warships, planes and supplies. This move is almost as important for Britain herself as for Greece, because if the totalitarian partners in crime should overrun Greece, they would have a springboard to cross the Aegean Sea. Then they might conquer Turkey, Syria and the oil regions beyond, in Iraq and Iran.

And if Hitler could cross there, he would also start circling around the Mediterranean from the east, toward Egypt, to join forces there with the Italian army moving eastward in North Africa.

Greece is linked with America by many ties, and has been regarded for more than 2,000 years as the intellectual home of civilized men everywhere. It was Greece that brought light to Europe, producing 2,500 years ago a type of man and life and government and mastery of the fine arts that has never yet been surpassed. The very word "democracy," over which the world is fighting today, is Greek. Free governments cannot forget that, and cannot but hope that modern Greece, by some miracle of defence, can remain free.

JOBS FOR FORTY-PLUS

MIDDLE-AGED men who have been discriminated against on account of their age will be cheered by a statement from J. L. Wood, credit manager of the Johns-Manville Corp. "The brain reflexes of the man of 40 to 50," he says, "are no less quick in their response than those of younger men. Indeed, they are quicker, since they not only find the answers promptly but are likely to find the correct ones. There is no substitute for experience."

The viewpoint is of special interest now when so many younger men are about to enter the army, leaving vacancies, and when the business expansion is demanding so many new hands. In this situation the middle-aged should get a squarer deal than they have had for years.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find a continuation of as fine Fall weather as ever I have known. Seems almost impossible, but it is here. Glanced over the morning prints and learned that the war of armies continues overseas and the war of words continues here at home. Thought over the radio blasts of the night before and came to the conclusion that with both political parties claiming that American welfare rests in their hands voters have a real problem of deciding on their hands. Of course it is not possible, but what a grand thing it would be if political candidates and their speaking supporters were required to deliver their addresses before a small group of judges and if the judges passed on just the actual facts to the people. We are supposed to vote intelligently, but how can we do it? I declare I don't know.

Out in the back yard is a climbing American Beauty rose that blooms in the Spring only. Or is supposed to bloom only in the Spring. I plucked a beautiful rose this very morning, the only one. And S. E. Chambers brought to my office a gorgeous double red rose from an ever-bloomer bush that has produced remarkably all summer in his East Mound Street yard.

Everyone talks about the draft. Few families in the county that are not affected one way or another. Well, unless we have actual war the military training will not hurt the young men. In fact, it will prove beneficial.

Dropped in at city hall just in time to see transfer of a prisoner who tried to grab Patrolman Radcliff's pistol and who bore plenty of evidence of the fact. Why, I haven't seen a black eye like that in years. Chatted with the mayor and police officers and then dropped in on Guy Pettit, who reports excellent radio sales. Went to Frank Howard, the tonsorial artist, and passed the time of day with several local candidates, all of whom appear confident of victory. Not long now until some of them will know just how many liars there are in Pickaway County.

Talked with Lawrence Goeller and learned that his plant is active and that he is working on an invention of promise. Pres Enderlin called from across the street and Charlie Gerhardt kidded me about the Kentucky fishless excursion, declaring that unless I can do better than that that I will have to join forces with Earl Smith. Had coffee alongside Tom Brunner, the jeweler and prize winning photographer. Some of Tom's camera work is as fine as anyone can produce.

Home for what I thought would be a quiet evening, but soon was informed that this was "Beggars' Night." Group after group came visiting until nothing was left except a little cider. Three boys were the last and two of them could not drink their cider, saying they didn't feel so well. And that was understandable, too, after hearing what they had eaten at various homes during the evening. But the third youngster drank all three glasses of cider with relish. They departed, one voicing thanks for what he did receive, and the others for what they did not receive. How glorious it is to be young.

WISCONSIN LaFOLLETTE FIGHTS

MADISON, WIS.—For more than thirty years there has been a LaFollette in the Senate, but this year the famous crusading dynasty is in real danger of being unseated.

"Young Bob" LaFollette, able, courageous, conscientious son of the late great Progressive, is fighting for his political life. In the past two weeks, Bob's prospects appear to have improved, but the final outcome of the close struggle is still doubtful.

Bob's opponent is Fred H. Clausen, wealthy farm-implement merchant, and regular Republican, who long has been a LaFollette foe. Clausen, however, is not the real source of Bob's difficulties, although he is their beneficiary.

Bob's difficulties stem from various factors unrelated to Clausen. Chief of them are:

(1) Deep-seated antipathy toward LaFollette's glib, ambitious, younger brother, Phil, twice Governor of Wisconsin; and

(2) A strong undercurrent of hostility toward Bob, because of his extreme isolationist stand, among the large Scandinavian population which has been the backbone of the Progressive movement in the state.

Phil LaFollette was defeated in 1938 by a wave of resentment against him, personally, and against the peculiar National Progressive Party which he launched that spring with suspiciously fascist trappings and ideological rhetoric. Phil denied that his movement had any fascist aims, but veteran LaFollette leaders refused to have anything to do with it just the same. William T. Evjue, two-fisted editor of The Madison Capital Times, official daily of the LaFollette organization, openly assailed Phil and the NPP.

This widespread feeling against Phil still is prevalent, and, curiously, is being taken out on Bob. Definitely abetting this is the known fact that Bob is swayed politically by his flashy younger brother.

Privately, Bob did not approve of the National Progressive Party plan. But when Phil insisted on going through with it, Bob did not demur.

Bob may yet skin through the election on November 5, but if he does he'll know he has been through the toughest fight of his fifteen-year senatorial career.

COUGHLIN AND MICHIGAN

DETROIT—A once shrill and widely feared voice is silent in the hot campaign melee churning up the hustings of Michigan. Father Charles Coughlin, whose radio bombardment and presidential ticket in 1936 had politics literally talking to themselves, now is both off the air and, politically, as flat as a pancake.

The politicians don't give Coughlin a thought and neither does the electorate of this great motor state. This is strikingly demonstrated in the Michigan primary, when two of his most intimate henchmen, squat, wordy Louis Ward, editor of Social Justice, and wispy George Herman Derry, Coughlin's braintruster, (Continued on Page Five)

Everything will be different when the campaign's over; that is, life will be normal again.

DIET AND HEALTH

Why Meat Has a Value in the Diet

By LOGAN CLENDEN, M.D.

The other day, in browsing through a second-hand book store, I came across a new long-forgotten volume, but on the title page was the name of the author, a name used by more than a million people a day in this land of the free choice and the plentiful food supply. It was J. H. Salisbury.

Dr. Clendenen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

M.D., and he left his name on Salisbury steak as indelibly as Lord Sandwich left his on another delicacy.

The contents of the book, as I say, have long been forgotten, but it may come as something of a surprise to many to know that once a reputable and conservative medical man should have advocated an almost exclusively meat diet. In states of health—that is, for a normal daily diet, Salisbury believed in a general fare with plenty of meat, but in certain disease he thought that meat alone was the beneficial thing and he advocated that it be chopped up fine, which last stroke of gastronomic genius earned him his name a place, if not in the hall of fame at least on the bill-of-fare board of every roadside tavern on the highways of North America.

Haig Against Meat

The idea was very popular in its day, and then a cloud came over the reputation of meat. And I think I can put my finger on the time and the name of the cloud. It was a book called "Uric Acid," by Dr. Haig, published about 1890. Haig, who was also a reputable physician, believed that nearly all chronic diseases come from an accumulation of uric acid in the body and uric acid comes from meat.

His book was a wonderful boon for a doctor who didn't like to think too much. Here were nearly all the diseases known to man listed with case histories to show that when the patients were taken off meat they got well. It was so easy. I don't know whether you've noticed it, but doctors are inclined to be a little faddy—especially about chronic diseases. Nowadays they would have put those patients on vitamins. In Haig's day they took them off meat.

The truth lies between the two extremes. Our methods of chemistry have improved since Haig's day. We can determine exactly the uric acid contents of the blood—and there are few people who have any retention of it.

A Beneficial Food

Meat is a good, beneficial, and for some purposes, almost indispensable part of the diet. One need not go as far as the famous Salisbury and eat nothing but meat, but it carries no hazard to eat it every day.

Even in certain diseases—kidney ailments, and high blood pressure—where twenty-five years ago many doctors prohibited meat, nowadays they think the patients need a certain amount.

Tomorrow we will review some of the newer knowledge of the nutrition of meat.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenen has several pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 15 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 1-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," and "Diet for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Four robes, two of them believed to be more than 100 years old, were returned by police to Mrs. S. T. Ruggles, South Court Street. They had been stolen from the Ruggles automobile.

Circleville's second annual Halloween parade was to move through the downtown streets at 8 p. m.

Mrs. May Tift, 56, a field officer for the Marysville reformatory and widow of the late Rev. George Tift, pastor at one time of the Methodist Church, was in a Monroe, Mich., hospital suffering a probable skull fracture, following an automobile accident.

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. W. B. Poor and son, Billy, who had been visiting Mrs. Poor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Neff, for two months, left for their home in Salt Lake City, Mr. Poor was located there, being associated with a mining engineer with the same company that had employed him in Alaska.

The schools of the city were to close Friday to permit the teachers to attend the sixty-first annual session of the Central Ohio Teachers' Association at Columbus. Dr. Will Durant, author of "The Story of Philosophy"; Claude G. Bowers, New York editorial writer; Dr. F. E. Pearson, former Ohio director of education, were among others scheduled to speak.

Over 100 were present at the Halloween party at the Pickaway Country Club, a barbecue dinner being served buffet style in the old smoke house.

Mrs. Mabel Nothstine returned to her home in Los Angeles, Cal., after a visit with her nephew, Mark Haswell.

25 YEARS AGO

The confectionery business established in November 1840 by the late G. F. Wittich was to celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary the following month.

Five members of the McKinley family of Harrisburg died within seven months. Mrs. Katherine McKinley, Seymour McKinley, Mrs. Sarah Thomas, Dr. James B. McKinley and Joseph H. McKinley.

Mrs. Lucy Bold of Canal Dover was elected worthy grand matron of the Eastern Star at the annual Grand Chapter session in Columbus.

Columbus was the only large city in Ohio to elect a Democratic mayor, George J. Karb being re-elected to serve his fifth term.

A Ford automobile owned by Turney Glick was stolen from its parking place in East High Street. It was a five passenger 1914 model.

Dr. G. A. Troxell, assistant physician in the Medfield, Mass., State Hospital, was in Circleville looking up the ancestors of William and David Ensworth, whose family intermarried with the Troxell family in 1823.

Ancient Egyptians wore the high-heeled shoe which was originally invented by the Persians to keep as much of the foot as possible out of contact with the hot desert sands.

SYNOPSIS
READ THIS FIRST:
GETTING a chance to enter the Sember radio contest through the friendship of VANCE HEALEY, topnotch radio sports announcer, KIT REILLY, young and eager ballad singer, holds small hope of being able to win. The contest winner is to receive $5,000 and a one-year contract to sing on the Sember program as the successor of NANA HARRIS, famous songstress, who is retiring. Nana is pleased by Kit's singing and uses her influence to have the judges award her the first prize. While Kit and her friend and dance partner, FRANK LE MAZE, are eating their Thanksgiving dinner, a telegram comes which tells Kit she has won the contest.

CHAPTER TWELVE

IT IS THE last week of November, the first week in December of the year 1936. The headlines are kindled with tense international situations. Personalities make front page news. The business of the nation lifts its head optimistically. Romance hits an all-time high and a love story becomes world news.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden sends fresh instructions to British Ambassador Sir Henry Chilton to press for an answer from General Franco on just what the Spanish Fascist leader intends to do about British shipping off the coast of Spain.

King Edward visits the stricken mine area of South Wales and promises relief to his distressed subjects. Lindbergh is reported missing on a night from Ireland to England.

Throughout the world, three million Catholics pray for the dying Pope Pius XI.

The Babson financial report declares November business the best since 1929. O. O. McIntyre, famed columnist, is offered and rejects a seven-thousand-dollar weekly fee for ten-minute radio talks.

Larry Kelley and Clint Frank, both of Yale, are the gridiron heroes in the glittering limelight that once shone on Vance Healey.

A Vanderbilt heiress takes a second husband, the former husband of a cousin. Rosa Ponselle becomes engaged to a Baltimore businessman. Mary McCormack, thirteen-year opera star, takes a fourth husband. Betty Jaynes, fifteen years old, is hailed as the greatest operatic discovery since Talley, and faces the press with assurance and states that she has no romantic interest.

"Boys and careers do not mix," she says wisely. In the dark of night an American divorcee speeds across the continent to the south of France in a fast motor car, fleeing from the storm caused by her proximity to the throne of England. A king abdicates.

Obscure items in the radio columns of the New York dailies announce that on the morning of November 26, the Sember Piano company will announce the name of the winner selected from the contestants in the now-concluded contest series.

On November 26, a new star, to be known to millions as Kitty O'Reilly, emerges from obscurity.

In an office in the Consolidated Broadcasting building, she approaches the receptionist diffidently, and asks if she may see Mr. Kane.

"My name is Reilly, Kit Reilly." The receptionist drops her poised pencil and stares for a moment of surprise and envy at the slight figure of the girl dressed in new and inexpensive clothes. She lifts her telephone and speaks into the instrument, in a voice still marked with surprise:

"Miss O'Reilly has arrived," she says prophetically.

Miss O'Reilly is escorted into the presence of Mr. Kane and the others who are waiting to receive her. Her reception is marked with the fan-fare attendant on the launching of a personality.

Later, speaking of that morning to a confidante, she said, "It was that day that I learned there are other than musical C's—the capitals, my dear, of four little words: Committees, congratulations, contracts and checks!"

There were also, in addition to these primary factors in the making of a star, the press and the photographers.

When this small army had departed to spread her Cinderella story from Maine to Mexico, Nana Harris helped her to escape from the people who still crowded around her.

She said: "I'm waiting for my car. When it comes, I'll give you a lift home. . . . Also, I may be able to give you a few suggestions that will help you over the first difficulties that you'll meet as a tal card. Use note paper and envelope.

"Please do, I'm feeling very much like Alice in Wonderland. No part of it seems quite real. . . . Even this room. I expect I'll wake up in a minute and find myself back in my room in Sullivan street."

But the room was real, and Kit felt that she never would forget it. Walls of pickled pine, rug of shaggy beige, modern murals done in water colors, and wide windows curtained with hand-blocked fabrics symbolized the bright new world in which she had already taken her place.

"Try to remember everything you're feeling today. Sometimes it's nice to have it to look back upon. That feeling that the whole world is yours."

She said, "No, I don't feel as if I owned the world—yet. I suppose I will when I forget that last week I was as broke as anyone could be. It isn't easy to grasp the idea that I've got proof here I'm to receive five hundred dollars a week, or to get it for doing nothing more than singing three songs a week."

Nana sighed and said, "Don't make any mistakes, my dear, about that business of singing only three songs. It's more than numbers that you have to deal with. You're not getting paid for them, but for the quality of what you deliver. And that quality is something in you, a part of you and not what's written on the sheet of music."

"I want to give the best I have," Kit said passionately.

"We all do, but sometimes we forget how much we really have when routine gets us down. There's something else, too, that we have to keep in mind, and that's our duty to our sponsor, making the thing we have act as a bond between him and the people he is giving something to, a real financial return."

"But—but how?"

"I can't tell you that except to say that you'll have to give everything you have. You'll have to exclude personal things and be a public performer. Does it frighten you?"

"Frighten me? Oh, no! Tell me more."

Nana wondered how she could tell this enchanted child of the difficulties that she so well knew lay ahead of her.

Public Health League Holds Annual Dinner

Dr. Myron Miller
On Interesting
Program

Dr. Myron D. Miller of the Franklin County Sanatorium urged a fuller educational program concerning tuberculosis, Wednesday, at the annual dinner of the Pickaway County Public Health League at the Hurricane. Thirty-three were present for his interesting talk.

Dr. Miller stressed the fact that it has been discussed so long that it has lost its terrors for many. He said that people now seem to feel that they are doing something about it as a favor for someone else when really they are doing it for themselves. The tremendous toll taken by it is not realized until it enters one's own home. "It must effect a person to make him realize the need for help," he said. Seventy-five to one hundred years ago, the death of young people from tuberculosis was astounding, he continued, with education, sanatoria, nursing and hospitalization it may be eliminated. The great need is to find cases as soon as possible, the tuberculin tests now being used in the schools revealing many early cases, which, when followed to the home frequently lead to the discovery of others.

He reminded the group that there is no class distinction in the disease. R. U. Hillman of the Ohio Public Health Association in opening his discussion said that "Health is something we are born with and die without" and added emphasis, with his remarks, to the need for the educational program first mentioned by Dr. Miller.

He discussed the coming Seal Sale and told the workers of the preliminary work, especially with regard to the revision of the mailing lists.

He told of the appointment recently of an advisory committee on health education and said that 12 outstanding members were now working in cooperation with the department in the school health policy. He mentioned many helps now available, and urged that any new departure in school health work be clearly explained to parents.

J. O. Eagleson, league president, in a brief welcoming talk spoke of the necessity for organized work in eradicating tuberculosis, saying in closing that "no one dies from tuberculosis but he dies from neglect."

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, executive secretary of the league, conducted the meeting and gave interesting statistics concerning the growth of the sale of seals during the last two years. She announced that the quota for 1940 is $1500, which means an increase of $175.13 over last year. She said that 80 percent of the money collected in the county is spent there, 15 percent going to the State and 5 percent to the nation wide program of tuberculosis work.

C. D. Bennett, representative director, presented a report of the National Health convention held last summer in Cleveland. Many leaders of civic organizations of Circleville and the county were present for the affair, as well as league members and township chairmen.

Machine-Guns Being Used On Populace; Some Troops Moving Back

ceases against the Fascist legions.

In one sector below the Greco-Albanian border, it was learned, a large number of Italian troops fell into a concealed Greek trap and were mowed down by machine-gun fire.

The local commander took advantage of the Italian rout and pursued the enemy across the border into Albanian territory.

Because of this over-zealousness, he was temporarily suspended from his command for disobeying orders.

In this excursion across the border the Greeks were said to have captured several Italian frontier posts in Albanian territory after hurling the Italians back in a frantic retreat.

This surprise—and unauthorized—blow at the Italians was delivered along the northwestern front between Florina and Janina and appeared to have checked for the time being the general Italian advance.

Near Main Defenses
But on the extreme western flank and in other sectors the Italians were said to be pushing further ahead and approaching the main Greek defenses to which the principal units of 400,000 Greek troops have been withdrawn.

North and west of Janina, Italian forces advanced behind heavy artillery and aerial barrages in a double-column pincer drive to capture that important industrial center, 30 miles below the Albanian border.

But neutral sources said the Greeks were stubbornly blocking this push and that fighting had assumed major violence.

Nearly 500 Italian prisoners were reported to have been transported to the Greek port of Salonika, where wounded Greeks and Italians were placed in hospitals.

It was understood in Athens that units of Italy's famed Bersaglieri corps were involved in the fighting between Florina and Janina. Some unconfirmed advices said hardy Greek mountain fighters were pushing Bersaglieri Alpini back toward their main base at Koritza, Albania.

The Italians were reported rushing heavy reinforcements to the battle areas to augment some 150,000 troops already in action. The Greek front-line and secondary forces were estimated at 400,000 men.

Railway traffic between Salonika and Yugoslavia was suspended without explanation.

(Rome reported yesterday that the railroad was threatened by Italian troops which were said to have captured Florina, 20 miles west of the line.)

TIRANA, Albania, Oct. 31—Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano arrived in Tirana, capital of Fascist-occupied Albania, from Rome today. (Editor's Note: A dispatch from Rome said it was reported Premier Mussolini also will fly to Tirana within a few days.)

ROME, Oct. 31—Italian troops have reached the Kalamas River in northern Greece, it was announced in Rome today.

LONDON, Oct. 31—Large detachments of British marines have landed on an island south of the Isle of Corfu, the London Daily Mail reported from Ankara, Turkey, today.

A Moscow radio broadcast picked up in London said that 18 British warships have arrived at Gibraltar, apparently from the Atlantic. This report was not confirmed by London naval circles.

ARMY IN NEED OF 12,000 NEW BOMBING UNITS

Duel Program To Provide Additional Assistance For Great Britain

As far as could be learned, all the new bombers would be used by the army. Navy aeronautical officials reported that naval aviation needs are being met adequately under the current program.

This program, launched in July, has resulted in the award of approximately $1,200,000,000 in airplane contracts to date, of which $1,052,000,000 has been allocated to the army and $147,000,000 to the navy.

Naval officials explained that the navy does not contemplate asking for additional aircraft funds until the regular departmental appropriation is presented to congress early in 1941.

Utilization of the automobile industry in manufacture of airplane parts will not interrupt output of motor cars. It is expected, however, that 1942 automobile models will necessarily be similar to the 1941 product.

Additional pursuit ships will be needed if the 12,000-bomber-plane program is undertaken, according to officials. It is doubtful, however, if money for pursuits will be asked at this time.

Officials explained that the need for additional bombers arises from the fact that they take a considerable time in construction. Pursuit planes are being built fairly rapidly, they reported.

RUPTURE

Expert Coming Here Again

WM. O. FOX

will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the

NEW AMERICAN HOTEL, CIRCLEVILLE

SATURDAY NOV. 2ND. FROM 2 P. M. TO 8 P. M.

Mr. Fox says the Fox method contracts the opening in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size and location of rupture, and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day, as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Fox rupture shield has no leg straps, waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

HE KEPT US OUT OF WAR

In 16,000,000 homes, and many more, the big question before we vote is whether the young men about to be conscripted will be ordered to war. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie made substantially the same answer. They both say they have no such intention.

But the road to hell is paved with good intentions, and war is hell. Words alone do not give the assurance that is wanted in these millions of homes. Behind words are the men who speak them. Warm admirers of Mr. Roosevelt say that the President always means what he says at the moment he says it. But he has admittedly a record of unfulfilled promises as long as your arm. Mr. Willkie has no such record.

There is another difference. However sincerely Mr. Roosevelt

"hates war" another fact must be admitted. He is impulsive. He loves power, and he hates restraint. He resents either Congress, or courts, or the PETTENGILL people when they stand in his way or vote against his desire. Mr. Willkie has said he fears some reckless act on the part of Mr. Roosevelt may get us into war, or bring war upon us, however much he may intend to keep the peace. There was that "stab in the back" statement, as one proof of that recklessness. Had Italy been powerful, and not engaged at the time, that might have brought war to these homes in America. It may help to do so yet.

Mr. Willkie on the other hand says he will not take America into war unless that is the wish of the people, speaking through their Congress—your Congressman.

One of the wisest men I know, a former general in the army, said to me, "If we make a mistake in domestic policy we can correct it ourselves. We have periodic elections and new Congresses for that purpose. A domestic mistake is not fatal. But if we make a mistake in foreign policy, the remedy is no longer entirely in our hands. It may curse us for decades to come."

The danger is that Mr. Roosevelt's personal sympathy for England, France and China, and his personal hatred of the rulers of Italy, Germany, Japan or Russia may lead him to some reckless act, and this country into war. Add to that his love of surprise, of dramatic action, of secrecy, and his ill-disguised opinion of Congress and you have a hair-trigger peace.

Let us look at the record. To begin with he was a strong League of Nations man. In 1930 he advocated the Versailles Treaty which most men today believe the fundamental cause of the rise of Hitler. He is committed to the philosophy of "collective security" of "unitary peace". He said, October 5, 1937, "aggressors" must be quarantined and that we must be parties to doing so. On that same day Henry L. Stimson advocated coercive action against Japan.

He recently took into his cabinet Mr. Stimson and Mr. Knox, two of the most noted fire-eaters in this country, and put them in charge of our Army and Navy. He speaks of "Vandals and Huns" and "gangster nations", an expression permitted to private individuals but scarcely to one who speaks publicly and officially for a nation. Two years ago he withdrew our Ambassador to Germany, although Britain and France maintained theirs in Berlin for another year. He has publicly scolded four great nations repeatedly.

Before war broke out he detained the Bremen in New York harbor. He reported submarines off New England, a fact never confirmed. He negotiated secretly with France with reference to bombers, as evidenced by the Douglas plane crash in the West. And this before Congress had repealed the embargo — in other words, when the sale of bombers was illegal. He secretly, and many authorities believe illegally, transferred 50 destroyers without the knowledge or consent of Congress. If this is legal he can transfer title to the entire fleet, or any part of it. He approved the embargo law in '35 and '36 and advocated its repeal in '37. He implies that Hitler is only "200 minutes" away from New York or St. Louis, a scarehead for which there is no responsible military opinion. He attempted to apply an embargo on gasoline and other general commodities to Italy in 1935 for which there was no legal authority. According to a famous authority on international law, Professor Borchard of Yale, this may be regarded as a violation of our treaty with Italy of 1871. Again he attempted, with coast guard vessels, the same sort of embargo before Congress has acted on the Spanish Civil War. He did this despite the previous refusal of Congress to authorize the embargo of non-war materials. This same authority states that this was in violation of our treaty with Spain in 1902. He authorizes Export-Import, i. e. government, loans to warring nations, thus cutting the corner of the Johnson Act and our own neutrality legislation, the will of Congress.

Thus he has acquired a sort of vested interest in world wide turmoil and war, with the possibility of secret commitments that may one day shock us as did the "secret treaties" of 1914-18.

After the end of the World War and while he was still Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in a public speech on February 2, 1920, he was reported by the New York Times to have said that he had violated enough laws to be sent to jail for 999 years.

However much alike the general views on foreign policy of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie may be, the methods of the two men are apparently far apart. And methods are important.

"WUTHERING HEIGHTS"

Ida Lupino, a young lady who is definitely on the upswing in the movies, will get an extraordinary radio break when she plays Cathy in "Wuthering Heights" with Basil Rathbone as Heathcliff on Monday in the Radio Theatre. This is the week Cecil B. DeMille returns to Hollywood to take over the reins of the full-hour dramatic show that's broadcast over the Columbia network at 9 p. m. Ever since her part opposite Ronald Colman in "The Light That Failed," Ida Lupino has been in top demand by the moviemakers of Hollywood. It was in this movie she convinced the skeptics she could carry a heavy part on her shoulders as deftly as a light one.

CROSBY BACK

When Bing Crosby returns to the Music Hall on Thursday, November 14, he'll bring a surprise with him in the person of Connie Boswell who becomes a regular on his program that night. The new billing for the program over the NBC red network at 9 p. m. each week will read Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Connie Boswell, the Music Mails and John Scott Trotter's orchestra plus guest stars.

Bing and Connie Boswell are old friends from way back in the early days of network radio. Bing was a fan of the Boswell Sisters and particularly liked the solo work of Connie, while Connie concentrated on the Crosby efforts as a member of Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys.

RADIO BRIEFS

Charlie Bulotti will handle the production assignment on Tommy Dorsey's "Fame and Fortune" program.

Opal Craven, the Lullaby Lady, will guestar for the second time on the Wayne King program, Saturday.

Joan Blaine will be guest at a children's Halloween program, and will recite "When The Frost Is On The Pumpkin," her first money-making job which earned her three dollars.

Knox Manning, announcer on the Sherlock Holmes program, is taking a picture assignment in "Cheer For Miss Bishop."

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—It was absolutely certain today that Outfielder Ducky Medwick won't be a holdout in 1941.

Medwick, an inveterate holdout, has signed his 1941 contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers for a pay check estimated at $20,000.

Joe came to terms right after the season ended. He was the second contract signer. The first was Manager Leo Durocher who soon came to terms during the World Series after a verbal tilt with President Larry McPhail in Cincinnati.

LACK OF SECOND TEAM STRENGTH CITED BY COACH

Schmidt Says Schedule Of Ohio's Calibre Calls For Reserves

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31—Answering critics who charged his Ohio State University football team is poorly conditioned, Coach Francis Schmidt today blamed the Buckeye's three consecutive defeats this season to lack of sufficient first-class substitutes.

"You got to have two or three teams of equal worth when you play a schedule like ours," the Buck coach declared.

"This schedule with such teams as Purdue, Northwestern, Minnesota and Cornell takes a lot out of a team," he asserted. "We outplayed Cornell in the first half and Minnesota all the way even though those teams have better reserves than us."

Schmidt also defended Don Scott, pre-season all-America quarterback choice.

"Scotty's signal calling has been all right. At least he runs the team himself without instructions from the bench," Schmidt apparently was taking an indirect crack at Carl Snavely, Cornell mentor, who was charged by Athletic Director L. W. St. John, of OSU, with directing the Big Red's play from the sidelines.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31—The Ohio State University football team, center of discussions and repercussions throughout this still flourishing grid season, today faced another acid test.

Could it take the lashing of Monday quarterbacks and return to win two and perhaps three of its final contests against Indiana, Illinois and Michigan?

Most of the High Street mob claim the team will be fortunate to win one—from Illinois. And all of the clamoring throng dread even the mention of the name of Harmon, or Michigan or Wolverine.

The team has borne up well under the severe criticism of the past month and still seems fired with a determination to take something out of this disastrous season. But despite the enthusiasm, there still is a glaring lack of line material and injuries have riddled both halfback spots.

As to the Indiana game, the Bucks aren't in any condition to play a bruising ball game which the Hoosiers will force. Five battles have left the Staters hanging on the ropes and this might be the one to send them toppling through to the hard ground below.

COACHES REMIND IRISH OF ARMY'S SURPRISES

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 31—Notre Dame's fighting Irish, whose record indicates they should defeat Army in New York Saturday without too much trouble, were not taking the Cadets for granted today. Yesterday's long scrimmage was one of the fiercest this season and coaches, guarding against any show of overconfidence, reminded the players that more than once in the past underdog Army elevens have risen to upset Notre Dame.

VOTING RECORD EXPECTED NEXT WEEK

ELECTION BOARD LOOKS FOR BIG TOTAL IN AREA

At Least Three Ballots To Be Issued To Each Who Enters Booths

FIVE SPECIAL ISSUES

Presiding Judges Listed For Each Of Forty Local Precincts

Two thousand more persons in Pickaway County will vote in the election November 5 than did in the Presidential year of 1936, Claude Kraft, clerk of the county board of elections, estimated Thursday as election officers prepared for opening of the polls. Officials predict the county vote will approach 15,000.

All voters in the county will be given at least three ballots, an official National Party Column ballot containing the party nominations for president and vice-president, an Official Party Column ballot containing the names of the district, state and county candidates, and a judicial ballot containing the names of party candidates to the courts. In Circleville, Darby Township, Ashville, Saltcreek Township and Washington Township, special issues will also be placed before the voters.

City voters will consider a three-mill operating levy, which city officials maintain necessary for the police, fire and service departments and for street lighting assessments. Voters in Darby Township will consider a local option on the sale of beer, Ashville voters a bond issue for the construction of a municipal building and Saltcreek and Washington Township voters bond issues to build additions to their school buildings.

Instructions Given
Names of candidates for president and vice-president are the only names which appear on the official National Party Column ballot. A voters may make a cross in either the circle at the top of the ballot or in the square below. Clerk Kraft pointed out, but should he make a cross in the circle of one political party and a cross in the square of the opposite party the ballot will be considered invalid. Voting the state and local tickets will be the same as in other years.

Two hundred and one absent voters have filed their ballots with the county board, and a few more are expected before the deadline at noon Friday, Clerk Kraft said.

Meanwhile supplies are being placed in order for the county's 40 voting precincts.

Presiding judges of the various precincts and the location of the voting booths follow:

Willkie Warns Of War By April If Roosevelt Returns To White House

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 31.—War was the penalty Wendell Willkie held up today to the voters of the United States if they reelect President Roosevelt to another term of office.

No longer hinting, no longer citing "indispensable men who have led their countries down the road to war," Willkie made his flat, terse prophecy to a Baltimore audience last night.

"If you reelect him you may expect war by April, 1941!"

It was strong language, stronger even than it appeared in the Republican presidential candidate's prepared text.

In that document, altered and changed by the candidate as he read along and as he usually does, he said:

"On the basis of his (Mr. Roosevelt's) past performance with pledges to the people, why shouldn't we expect to be at war by April 1941, if he is elected?"

When he reached that portion of his text, he looked up, leaned forward, and put this challenge:

"Mr. Third Term Candidate—is your pledge about peace and acceptance of the Democratic platform more or less sacred than the pledge you made about sound money in 1932?"

"Are you kidding Joe Kennedy the same way you kidded Carter Glass?"

(Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy broadcasting in behalf of the President the night before had assured the nation that Mr. Roosevelt's reelection would mean continuing peace.)

The first industrial exposition in which all nations might participate was held in the Crystal Palace, London, England, in 1851.
